

Abstract

The invention relates to a process for the metallization of an insulator and/or a dielectric, wherein the insulator is firstly
5 activated, it is subsequently coated with another insulator and the latter is patterned, then the first is seeded and lastly metallized.

FIG 1

10